Cairo

Take an everlasting trip to some of the unforgettable sites of Egypt with our Grand Egyptian Museum and Pyramid tours. Whether you are a history lover or just among those few who wish to explore the treasures that rest from ancient Egypt, this is a good chance to see the treasures of Cairo with utmost comfort and away from any stress.

The Grand Egyptian Museum

A trip like this ought to start at the Grand Egyptian Museum (GEM) which is a modern building, situated just outside the Giza Pyramids complex, where it holds unrivaled displays of Ancient Egyptian artifacts, including the treasures of King Tutankhamun, the royal mummies, and over 100,000 objects spanning more than 5,000 years of Egyptian history. As you stroll along the enormous corridors of the museum, your perspective of a civilization that has laid much of the early history of the world before you will deepen. Therefore, GEM is the first stop for any history lover who wants to gather more insight concerning Egypt's rich heritage.

The Giza Pyramids Complex

After the museum, you will proceed to the famed Giza Pyramids Complex. The Great Pyramid of Giza here is one of the Seven Wonders of the Ancient World, which is a must-see for anyone visiting Egypt. Here, you will stand spellbound in front of the grand pyramids, amazed at the ingenuity and precision of the ancients who built these mammoth edifices 4,500 years ago. The great pyramid of Khufu, the largest of the three pyramids, is actually the zenith in engineering, while the other two smaller ones, Khafre and Menkaure, are mere highlights of Egypt's past.

Nonetheless, no pyramid visit would be complete without a look at the enigmatic Sphinx, the lion-bodied statue with a pharaoh's head, which has been guarding the pyramids for centuries. Revel in taking picturesque photo ops and soaking up the ambience of this internationally renowned archeological site.
