Egyptian History in a Single Day

Be charmed into the cultural domain, perhaps from Sokhna Port toward Cairo, wherein the ancient and contemporary worlds of Egypt merge in some of the country's eminent museums. This full-day excursion is best suited for those travelers who wish to go deep into Egypt's heritage without the pressure of spending an extended stay in the capital.

Departing at the Port of Sokhna

Designed specially for cruise guests and port arrivals at Sokhna Port, this tour will pamper its guests with seamless transportation in a private air-conditioned vehicle. Take a picturesque drive through the desert scape to the heart of Cairo with your professional guide, who will enliven Egypt's history.

Cairo Museums on Top of the List

Perhaps the excursion entails visits to two of the most eminent museums in Cairo. At the Egyptian Museum in Tahrir Square, you will visit ancient treasures: the golden mask of Tutankhamun and treasures that could be dated back 5,000 years. Then, on the other hand, is the modern and interactive National Museum of Egyptian Civilization (NMEC), with the Royal Mummies Hall as the highlight, which houses the preserved remains of Egypt's famous pharaohs.

An Ideal Balance of Knowledge and Comfort

With a pass to skip the lines, expert guidance, and a nice Egyptian lunch served, this tour has been designed with comfort and education in mind. Whether one happens to be an inquisitive historian or just a traveler interested in culture, the Cairo Museums Tour will ensure an interior showdown into the mysteries of the ancient past of Egypt.

Day tour to the museums in Cairo from Sokhna port

Step one in the quest of cultural exploration shall be a rendezvous at the port of Sokhna, under the warm sun and under the consultancy of an expert Egyptologist. Beyond awaits a scenic two-hour chiller-equipped drive to Cairo.

Immediately upon arrival at Cairo begins the planned visit to the Egyptian Museum at Tahrir Square, which is said almost surely to contain one of the most significant collections of ancient Egyptian artefacts in the world. See the treasures of Tutankhamun, royal mummies, and a myriad of priceless relics from at least 5,000 years. Present your guide who will relate the fascinating tales of every exhibit.

Soon after, one shall go forth to the Old Cairo National Museum of Egyptian Civilization, newly built and offering an integrated history of Egypt from prehistoric days up to today. Uncommonly well-preserved, the Royal Mummies Hall allows you to come face to face with some of the greatest pharaohs of ancient Egypt.

After the lovely visits of the two museums will come lunch at a local restaurant overlooking the Nile or in a more traditional Cairo neighborhood; the choices will accommodate every preference.

Should time permit, a lehet?ség will be given for taking a few quick snapshots at Cairo Citadel or Khan El Khalili Bazaar before the journey back.

The journey back to Sokhna Port will be a pleasant end to an invigorating day of wonderful sightseeing, arriving by early evening with cherished memories etched forever in one's heart from Egypt's vast cultural heritage.
