Cairo is the starting point for a private half-day food tour where you can dive into the rich and diverse world of Egyptian cuisine. The adventure kicks off in style with a pickup from your hotel by an experienced local guide introducing Cairo's most popular street food places and traditional eateries. Enjoy authentic dishes that make Egypt proud: koshari, a wholesome combination of lentils, rice, and pasta; and falafel-a flavorful deep-fried ball made of fava beans. Each stop will encourage a more profound consideration of Egypt's culinary culture as you taste and learn the history behind these classic dishes.

Amidst Cairo's bustling streets and markets, the scents of freshly baked baladi bread and sizzling shawarma permeate the air. A traditional café is next door, where you'll enjoy a cup of authentic Egyptian tea or coffee with tasty local desserts like basbousa and kunafa. Your guide will surely share many stories about the food culture of the Land of the Nile: how flavor influences the cuisine, including the significance of each dish in daily life. This tour guarantees an unforgettable culinary experience for anybody with an interest in food or Egyptian cuisine!

The half-day food tour will conclude as you are comfortably driven back to your hotel, satisfied and now with a complete understanding of Cairo's rich food culture. This private excursion offers a more personalized touch, ensuring you can explore hidden culinary gems at your own pace. From street food joints to idyllic local restaurants, the tour is a wonderful immersion into Egyptian cuisine as you traverse through central Cairo.

Half-Day Food Tour

The Private Half-Day Food Tour in Cairo makes an early start so that you are welcomed by your personal Cairo Top Tours representative at the earliest. Then you are taken in comfort in an air-conditioned private vehicle as you would be taken through a tasty exploration of an Egyptian culinary scene. Start your day with an authentic Egyptian breakfast served with local favorites like fowl (fava beans), crispy falafel, baba ghanoush, and fried eggplant freshly prepared and full of flavor. Accompany your food with a refreshing traditional drink such as sugarcane juice, tamarind, hibiscus, or Sobia (a coconut and milk concoction).

Afterward, a nice food walk around the busy streets of Cairo's downtown where you get glimpses of historical architecture, busy markets, local eateries, and charm. For lunch, treat yourself to one of the following Egyptian classics: Koshari, a hearty mix of pasta, lentils, chickpeas, and a piquant garlic sauce; Egyptian Shawarma, freshly grilled meat or chicken wrapped in warm bread; or an Oriental Pie (Egyptian-style pizza) loaded with sumptuous toppings. The sweet conclusion is then followed by a visit to a popular pastry shop to sample some traditional Egyptian desserts: Basbousa, Kunafa, Baklava, and Goulash.

After this magical culinary journey, your guide will escort you back to your hotel; this, along with the memories left behind, might allow for a deeper appreciation of the food culture of Cairo.
