Behold an Awe-inspiring Egyptian Pyramids

Three of the most renowned pyramids in the world— Khufu, Khafre, and Menkaure—are present on the plateau at Giza. Built more than 4,500 years ago, these stone giants still make visitors gasp with amazement and dream about the mysteries they hold. To stand in front of such monumental structures is quite an experience. You learn about the advanced engineering skills of the ancient Egyptians and the importance of such royal tombs. No matter whether you are a history buff or just curious about what went on in Egypt, this experience leaves humans entranced.

Ride a Local Camel

This is one of the most enjoyable activity: riding a camel across the Giza desert made golden by the sun. With this traditional means of transport, you can now look at the pyramids from different angles. It is a compelling way to bring magic to the experience since, from the teetering of the shoulders, one will almost feel transported back in time, as if he is an ancient trader or traveler who crossed this land before.

The Mysterious Sphinx

No visit to all around Giza Pyramids would be complete without visiting the Sphinx. The huge statue of limestone has the head of a pharaoh and the body of a lion. It was built maybe around the time of the pyramids to guard them, even though there are historians that dispute that. The expression on the mysterious face of the Sphinx and its history make it one of the most attractive sights of Egypt; it has been leaving the preoccupied of visitors for ayunti.
