Cairo

Have you ever seen Egypt from the top of a tower? What does it look like? Savor a journey that lets you witness Cairo from the highest point. Taking memento shots with these images in the background creates a bright and brilliant painting since the visitor can observe Cairo's streets' continual traffic and unrelenting activity from this vantage point.

Despite the hustle and bustle of the capital, this situation can be seen as more different if viewed from another angle. This angle might be from the top of the Cairo Tower, which is often associated with meetings with loved ones or tourist visits. However, the truth is that Cairo has its own charm from atop this tower, which has a distinctive design and a wider angle from which you can see the features of Al-Muizz's Cairo as you have never seen it before.

Enjoy an interesting trip around the Nile. In addition to being one of Egypt's most exquisite promenades, the Nile Corniche is a well-known tourist destination in Cairo. Locals call it the Egyptian People's Walkway. Recently, the state has developed the walkway to become more beautiful and added modern touches to it so that it returns to what it was, the inspiration for poets and the companion of writers who wrote about the Nile in Egypt.

Thanks to its numerous stores that provide everything travelers may possibly need, from luxury goods to basic necessities, Khan El Khalili Market is one of the most visited tourist destinations.

One of the most delightful things to do in Khan El Khalili Market is to stroll about it at night, peruse the stores, and even purchase mementos. We have designed this entertaining trip for you because of all these factors.

We will head to Tahrir Square... The largest plaza in Greater Cairo, Egypt, is Tahrir Plaza, which was once known as Ismailia Square in honor of Khedive Ismail. Later, the name was changed to Tahrir Square to honor the 1919 Revolution's freedom from colonialism.

Then we move to the Cairo Tower. Built between 1956 and 1961, it was designed by Egyptian architect Naoum Shabib. Approximately 500 Egyptian workers participated in its construction... It assumes the form of a pharaonic flower, the lotus. Its construction cost approximately six million Egyptian pounds at the time. Americans called the tower "Nasser's Thorn," a reference to the steadfastness of Egypt's position at this stage.

Have a drink at El-Fishawy Café, a gathering spot for politicians and thinkers. Originally constructed in 1797 as a small buffet for Egyptian and foreign tourists, El-Fishawy Café is presently a three-room café located in an alley in Khan el-Khalili.
