Bahariya oasis

The White Desert: The first geological park created by nature that preserves its features

Explore and enjoy a nature reserve among the reserves that Egypt has, many formations that were formed as a result of an occasional sandstorm in the region, and as a result, they were transformed into what is considered an open museum for studying the desert environment, geography, fossils, and amazing wildlife.

Visit the Bahariya Oasis, which has a rich history and natural development since ancient times, and has a charming atmosphere and a long history, and its antiquities.

Discover this spot, rich in heritage, culture, customs, traditions, and features that express its natural beauty. The Bahariya Oasis has seven enchanted locations.

1- The Palace Area

2- Bawiti City

3- The archaeological area of Al-Hayz

4- The villages of Al-Zabu, Mandisha, Al-Hara, Al-Qabala, and Al-Ajouz

5- The Banentio Cemetery

6- The Valley of the Golden Mummies Cemetery

7- The Tomb of the Governor of the Oasis (Jed Khensuef Ank)

Itinerary

Day 1: White desert tour

We will take you to the heart of the Western Desert in Egypt, more than five hundred kilometers from Cairo, and about forty-five kilometers north of the Farafra Oasis in the New Valley Governorate. Upon your arrival, our representative will be there waiting for you. He will receive you and prepare lunch for you in their special way so that you can complete your trip.

We head to Wadi El Haiz to enjoy this valley, learn about its geological formations, and discover the story of the ruins of the Roman fortress of Qasr Masuda in El Haiz. This is an exciting journey that combines nature and history.

After that, we will visit the rarest mountains in the world. The entire mountain is composed of many crystal ores. There are more than 12 types of crystal, gathered together in a huge mountain mass that was full of thousands of colored glass pieces, surrounded by many stories about their priceless material value.

After enjoying the Crystal Mountains, we head to the "Valley of Obstacles" in the White Desert.. It is said to be a piece of Mars on Egyptian soil, formed as a result of limestone deposits and erosion. This gives the region, which has not been altered by humans, an amazing beauty. This place makes its visitors feel as if they are on another planet other than Earth, which has made this valley an important destination for camping and accommodation enthusiasts.

Enjoy dinner before your overnight stay at your simple hotel that suits this environment.

Day 2: Last day in the Bahariya Oasis and the White Desert

Enjoy breakfast at your hotel, featuring Egyptian beans, falafel, and Egyptian bread. We'll start with the Golden Mummies Hall: Discover the largest cemetery in Egypt dating back to the Greco-Roman era. Around 250 mummies, most of them members of the aristocracy who lived in the Bahariya Oasis during the Greco-Roman era, are housed within. The mummies, which were discovered, sport gilded masks and chests, and are decorated with hieroglyphic inscriptions and religious motifs... This discovery highlights the importance of the Bahariya Oasis in ancient Egyptian history. It was discovered by Egyptologist Dr. Zahi Hawass in 2000 AD...

Our tour also includes the Ain al-Maftala shrines. The four Ain al-Maftala shrines date back to the Twenty-sixth Dynasty, the same period as the tombs. During the rule of Ahmose II (Amasis), these shrines were overseen by the priest Shebenkhonsu and finished by Djedkhonsu Iufankh, the administrator of the Bahariya Oasis.

The rock salt lakes scattered throughout the lake attract thousands of people seeking relaxation and recreation. These salt lakes contain elements that aid in healing many ailments, in addition to the energy they emit, ridding the body of negative energy and treating many diseases. Also, enjoy the palm trees and nature before returning to Cairo.
