Saqqara Tour from Cairo

Known mostly for housing the Step Pyramid is like a giant staircase that was built a long time ago. It is made of big blocks of stone stacked on top of each other, getting smaller as they go up. People used to climb up the steps to reach the top of the pyramid. It was a special place where important people were buried., A well-liked tourist attraction during trips to Egypt, Saqqara is said to be the earliest pyramid ever constructed among those attributable to Egyptian culture. Up to the third dynasty, it functioned as the royal necropolis of the ancient Kingdom.

According to ancient Egyptian tradition, the Pharaoh was not just a ruler on earth but also a deity or son of the Sun God Amun-Ra, who acted as the servant of God's will and the mediator between the Gods of ancient Egypt and the people. So building such huge pyramids was a majority demand to guarantee a better life for them and their children after them.

At the first

you will visit the first tomb ever built entirely out of stones, King Djoser built this Step Pyramid with the help of his genius architect, This building clearly shows how the pyramid building developed. It is the initial pyramid constructed in Egypt and while it is not a 'true pyramid' with smooth sides, like the Giza Pyramids and the Bent Pyramid, and the Red Pyramid of Dahshur. it is the first large-scale cut-stone structure in the world that consists of six steps.

The second Site

The pyramid of Unas, The Fifth Dynasty saw the construction of the Unas Pyramid. Despite its modest size, this pyramid is significant because it contains the first example of the Pyramid Texts on the walls, the earliest documentation of a written Semitic language is found in some writings in a Semitic dialect that is written in ancient Egyptian characters.

The third Site

The tomb of Idut is one of the most significant tombs at the location. The princess who owned it belonged to the Royal Family and lived from the end of the Fifth Dynasty to the start of the Sixth. The tomb is renowned for its vibrant scenes of daily life, which include fishing, scribes, a statue of the Princess, agricultural activities, the harvesting of papyrus, livestock, and butchers.

The fourth Site

The Pyramid of Teti, the founder of the Sixth Dynasty who ruled Egypt after Pharaoh Unas, followed the example of Unas, the Pyramid was made of tightly packed blocks of stone, enclosed in fine limestone.

As a result, the pyramid today resembles a natural hill little as a result of earthquakes and natural changes, But the substructure is still there.

Despite the fact that in antiquity the majority of its blocks were robbed. The location of His Valley temple is still unknown. In front of Teti's pyramid is a sizable cemetery where the bodies of his officials are buried. The mastaba of the viziers Mereruka and Kagemni is one of the largest and most exquisitely decorated tombs of the Old Kingdom.

the fifth Site

the Tomb of Mereruka, Mereruka was the minister during the reigns of Kings Teti, he is buried in the mastaba of the Teti pyramid. This tomb is decorated with numerous exquisite scenes that offer insight into life during the Old Kingdom. also, you will visit the tomb of Serapeum, The Serapeum, which consists of two lengthy corridors and once housed the mummified remains of the bulls, is reached via an avenue of sphinxes.

that last site

the museum of Imhotep The museum, which was named for the ancient Egyptian architect Imhotep The museum displays masterpieces from Saqqara, archaeological finds, Egyptian art contains vessels, statues, and stelae made of wood and stone, as well as the ancient tools used to build the monuments, architectural elements, and objects used in burials from the 6th Dynasty through the New Kingdom.

Finally, you will return to your hotel in Cairo or Giza.
